

complaint

mad!

no!

why
not
?

bored

customer service complaint

Bex Lawton

looks at the funny side of complains about
unanswered prayer

not in the mood

Too
busy

sad!!

is
any one
listening
?

God
who?

To whom it may concern,

I like to think I've always had an eye for a bargain, so naturally I was excited to come across the three-for-one Trinity, 'The best a man can get. Choose Godhead three-in-one for a closer save'.

However, early this month I placed an order for healing (X-Large) and a multipack of happiness and wellbeing, but they've not been delivered yet. This is despite me using 'In Jesus name' before Amen at checkout for guaranteed special delivery. I must confess that I wouldn't call myself a loyal customer, I use 'prayer' from time to time. But quite angry

no
one at home

honestly, I've been disappointed with the results despite Pete@TheRockHardDisciple and Paul@Epistle.Fo.Shizzle's customer 5* ratings. I had hoped that this simple transaction would be a smooth process. Can I remind you that the customer is always right?

Please let me know if there's just been a delay on my order, or if I need to place it again with a louder voice maybe? I saw that you don't take Amex, but do you still take animal sacrifices? Unfortunately, I am vegan, but I'm sure I've got half an aubergine and a Taste the Difference medley of Mediterranean vegetables in the bottom of my fridge. I would be happy to chuck them on the barbeque for you, if it gets the job done.

I would say that I'm looking forward to hearing from you soon, but that might imply that I'm in the mood for listening, and I'm really not. I'm far too busy. Frankly, all I want is results and I'm tired of waiting.

Mostly yours,

Christian Whingebag

P.S. Can I suggest that you get on with developing a phone app? I want to get my prayer order done whilst slobbered out on my sofa with half an eye on Netflix, the way I do my other online shopping. That would be far more convenient for me, thank you.

waiting

My beloved child,

I am delighted when people pray, I love hearing from you. However, it sounds as though you may have mistaken me for 'Prime' not 'Divine'. I do not guarantee next day delivery, but guarantee that I am Love, I am Good, and I am Faithful. To be honest, I prefer to operate prayer as a two-way conversation. It's relational not transactional. I invite my followers to explore and get to know me better, whilst also embracing my mystery and otherness. Please accept my open invitation to keep asking and keep seeking.

I love you unconditionally,

The Great I AM ✨

Thanks
X